

The Sixth Word - Life, Love and Relationships

21/8 - 28/8

This commandment continues the strong theme of the sacredness of human life. Murder was the first recorded sin after Adam and Eve left the garden of Eden... and it all went downhill from there.

But the commandment goes further than just murder. Really, it's about how we treat each other in relationships. Unkindness kills, and we're accountable to God for it.

The sixth word points us toward God's desire for us to include, love and build up one another. How can you grow at putting that into practice this week?

Reflections

What would you say to someone who thinks, "As long as I don't hurt anyone, I can live how I like"? How might the sixth word apply to that ethic?

Can you think of particular situations or people that tend to arouse your anger or unkindness?
